1. Replacement proof of identity at campsites

Camping Key Europe is a replacement proof of identity at campsites that participate in the Camping Key Europe network. Checking-in is made fast and easy because the camping card contains all of the camper's personal information. And perhaps the most important advantage: campers can keep their passports with them. In a number of countries, campers are required to show their passports, but this document no longer has to be handed in at the reception desk.

Terms and conditions for replacement proof of identity at campsites

- Camping Key Europe is a proof of identity for campers. At many European campsites, campers can hand this card in at the reception desk instead of their passport or ID card.
- The normal passport or ID card must be valid during a camper's entire stay at a campsite. This does not apply in countries where different stipulations apply, e.g. the stipulation that a passport must be valid for at least another 6 months on the date of departure.
- Camping Key Europe is valid as a replacement proof of identity only if the number of the passport or the ID card is printed on the front of the card or has been filled in by the CKE holder in the designated space on the back.
- Camping Key Europe is valid only if it bears the signature of the CKE holder in the designated space on the back of the card.
- The CKE card is non-transferable and is valid up to the final date shown on the front of the card.
- If a camper leaves without paying (accidentally or deliberately), the campsite owner can contact the issuer of the card by e-mail or phone so the CKE holder can be traced. In addition, in such a case, CKE guarantees the payment of the bill up to a maximum stay of 7 nights. Campsites may resort to this only if they have the actual CKE card of the camper in question. The campsite can report this via the issuer of the card (see for contact information the back of the card), after which the card can be sent with an accompanying letter.

- The Camping Key Europe insurance package also covers (injury) damages to third parties. The cover is applicable to a maximum of 6 people during their stay at the campsite, including in rental accommodation. The campsite must be able to submit a police report before the insurance company is taking care of the case.
